The 7-Day Breakfast & Tiffin Rotation Planner

Eliminating Decision Fatigue & Morning Cooking Panic for Indian Moms

Why Rotational Planning Works

Most children become picky because they eat the same 3-4 "safe" items repeatedly, leading to sensory boredom and refusal of new foods. A rotational schedule prevents this by systematically introducing variety, while ensuring you know exactly what to cook before your alarm goes off.

This 7-day rotational planner is designed to balance proteins, complex carbs, and hidden vegetables using simple weekly prep cycles.

Weekly Prep Cycle (Done on Sunday night)

Spend 20 minutes on Sunday to make morning cooking take under 10 minutes:

- 1. Chop & Freeze: Grate carrots, chop spinach, boil peas, and store them in dry, airtight containers.
- 2. Batter Prep: Make a batch of multi-grain cheela batter or soak dals. Store in the refrigerator.
- 3. Himalayan Fruit Bowl: Wash, dry, and place fresh apples, pears, kiwis, and plums (sourced wax-free) in the fruit bowl.

■ KhaduFarm Quality Tip: When packing fresh fruits like apples or pears in the school tiffin, toss the slices in a teaspoon of fresh orange or lemon juice. The vitamin C prevents oxidation (browning), keeping the fruit looking fresh, crisp, and appealing to your child by lunchtime.
